A Little Thought Would Have Helped.

Mr. Muzzy's problem in today's deal is a common one.
Often, in defending against 3 no trump, a player has two suits stopped and must decide which stopper to let go when declarer runs a third suit. Sometimes it is impossible to make the right decision scientifically and it is necessary to guess.

At other times, however, a little thought will make the right decision clear as crystal.
In response to his partner's overcall, Mr. Muzzy opened 4 the 10 of spades. Mr. Dale ducked the first two rounds of spades and won the third with an ace.
Two clubs were discarded from the board.

Next he ran the diamond suit.
On the third and fourth diamond leads, he discarded two small clubs from his hand. On the third diamond Mr. Muzzy dropped a heart. On the fourth he was in a quandary.

Should he unguard hearts or clubs? Mr. Dale had sluffed two clubs and no hearts. Apparently he was not interested in clubs. So Mr. Muzzy decided to let go of the treasury of clubs.

Mr. Dale then had nine cold tricks. After taking five diamonds he led a club to the ace, cashed the king and the seven spot won the game-going trick.

Mr. Abel wanted to know why Mr. Muzzy had desperately held on to his hearts and Mr. Muzzy wanted to know how he could tell what suit to unguard.

"Look, Muzzy," said Mr. Abel, fairly patiently. "he had one spade trick in and he obviously had five diamond winners. That's six tricks. Now, if he had ac-king-queen of hearts he would have his game no matter what you did. Since that is true, you must hope I have the ace of hearts and therefore you must choose to guard the clubs."

Mr. Abel was right. But Mr.
Muzzy wasn't going to take all the blame. "Why didn't you flash a high heart to tell me you had the ace?" he said, belligerently.

NET GAME TONIGHT

DePauw University's net team will still be looking for that strong record they held on the hardwood last season as they start a three-game stand tonight.

Playing host to Ball State tonight, with the teams taking the floor at 8 p. m., the Tigers will be out to repeat its two victories over that team last season, 52-46 and 56-37.

Indiana State will travel to Greencastle on Saturday of this week for the second of the three-game Tiger home series. Last season the staters forced the Tigers to fight their way to two wins by scores of 74 to 62 and 67 to 60.

Denison is the third team in the series. On Wednesday, Dec.
19, Denison will visit DePauw for the third game between the two schools since 1931. DePauw has won in the two previous encounters between the two schools.

So far this season, the Tigers have won one contest while dropping two. Illinois Normal was downed by the Old Gold in the last minutes of play for the victory, 62-58, in the Tiger opener.

Next the Greencastle men went on the road for two losses.
Last Thursday Purdue dealt them a 68 to 56 defeat, and on Saturday Iowa did the same by 16 points, 69-53.

Tiger reserves will see action for the first time when they meet the Ball State second squad tonight at 6:45 p. m. They will also go against the Indiana State reserves Saturday at the same time.

DePauw's starting line-up will include Kent Guild, junior from Fairland, and Richard Tinkham, sophomore from Hammond, at forward. Lee Hamilton, Evansville ace from last year's squad, will be at center, with Harry Stewart, Indianapolis, and Clyde James, Marion, at guard.

It's Blackwood For Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

Helped.

Mr. Muzzy's problem in today's deal is a common one.
Often, in defending against 3 no
trump, a player has two suits
stopper to let go when declarer
decision scientifically and it is necessary to guess.

right decision clear as crystal.

overall, Mr. Muzzy opened "the 10 of spades. Mr. Dale ducked

and won the third with an ace.

the board.

Next he ran the diamond suit.

ped a heart. On the fourth he was in a quandary.

Should he unguard hearts or

to let go of the trey of clubs.

Mr. Dale then had nine cold

tricks. After taking five diamonds he led a club to the ace, cached the king and the seven spot won the game-going trick.

Mr. Abel wanted to know why

Mr. Muzzy had desperately held

tell what suit to unguard.

"Look, Muzzy," said Mr. Abel,

fairly patiently, "he had one

ceking-queen of hearts he would

must hope I have the ace of

choose to guard the clubs.

Mr. Abel was right. But Mr.

Muzzy wasn't going to take all

a high heart to tell me you had

the ace?" he said, belligerently.

NET GAME TONIGHT

DePauw University's net team
will still be looking for that
start a three-game stand tonight.

Playing host to Ball State tonight, with the teams taking
will be out to repeat its two
victories over that team last season, 52-46 and 55-37.

Indiana State will travel to
week for the second of the three-
game Tiger home series. Last season the staters forced the
wins by scores of 74 to 62 and 67 to 60.

Denison is the third team in the series. On Wednesday, Dec.
19, Denison will visit DePauw
for the third game between the two schools since 1931. DePauw
has won in the two previous encounters between the two schools.

So far this season, the Tigers
have won one contest while
dropping two. Illinois Normal
the last minutes of play for the victory, 62-58, in the Tiger
opener.

Next the Greencastle men
went on the road for two losses.
Last Thursday Purdue dealt
Saturday Iowa did the same by 16 points, 69-53.

Tiger reserves will see action
squad tonight at 6:45 p. m. They
will also go against the Indiana State reserves Saturday at the same time.

DePauw's starting line-up
will include Kent Guild, junior
from Fairland, and Richard Tinkham, sophomore from Hammond, at forward. Lee Hamilton, Evansville ace from last year's

Harry Stewart, Indianapolis,
guard.

LOOKING... ...AT LIFE

BY ERICH BRANDEIS

Margaret Truman may get married very soon—and to the son of a music critic at that! There is only one hitch.

Her prospective bridegroom is only six years old.

And like all young men of his age he is liable to change his mind very quickly.

So, if the young gentleman whose name is Norman Nadel, proposes, Margaret had better accept him right away.

Next week he may have decided to forego marriage for the life of a cowboy.

This is how it came about.

When Miss Truman appeared on television with Jimmy Durante not long ago, this young son of the music critic of the Columbus, O. Citizen, decided that he wanted Margaret to be his wife.

At first he didn't know whether it was she or Jimmy with whom he was smitten.

But when his father explained to him that a marriage with Durante would not be exactly suitable for a cowboy, he chose Margaret.

Ever since her television appearance Norman has been a changed boy. He behaves beautifully; he has doffed his cowboy uniform—and he is working on a letter of proposal.

However, a few days ago, his father caught him looking once again at the comic papers, so the great event may not take place after all.

It is really quite remarkable how quickly children can change their minds. Sometimes I wonder whether it wouldn't be a pretty good idea if grown-ups were equally pliable.

I keep a jar of candy in the house for the dozen or more kids in our neighborhood. It's just plain hard candy with different flavors. But some of the little sticks are pink, others red, still others yellow, some white.

One of our neighbors, little Sally, is six years old, but you should see with what care she selects her candy.

Almost every day she comes around with different kids—and every day Sally is offered the candy jar, she has developed a different taste.

Last week she would not accept the white candy. She wanted the pink and yellow stripes. This morning it was the red kind.

But when she saw that Mary Anne, a new neighbor who proudly announced that she is six months older than Sally, preferred the red and white striped piece, she made me promise her that the next time I would reserve a few red and white ones for her.

And furthermore, since she has noticed that, due to her aversion to the white sticks there are quite a few of those left in the jar, she has tried her best to sell her little brother Trippy on the great advantage of white candy.

"Take one," she said to him. "It's delicious."

Whereupon Trippy, getting suspicious, took a white piece and promptly gave it to Hilda, a new tail-less dog who has recently moved into the neighborhood and already made our home her home.

There is an old saying, "The child is father of the man." By studying children one can get a pretty good idea of what moves men—and women.
